Updated Guidance to Facility Security Officers
Prime Contract Number Field
As of 30 March 2021

When submitting requests for personnel security clearance investigations to DCSA, the prime contract number is a required field in DISS. DCSA may reject investigation submissions that don't include the prime contract number. This information is essential to validate contractor personnel security investigation submissions against their sponsoring government contracting activities.

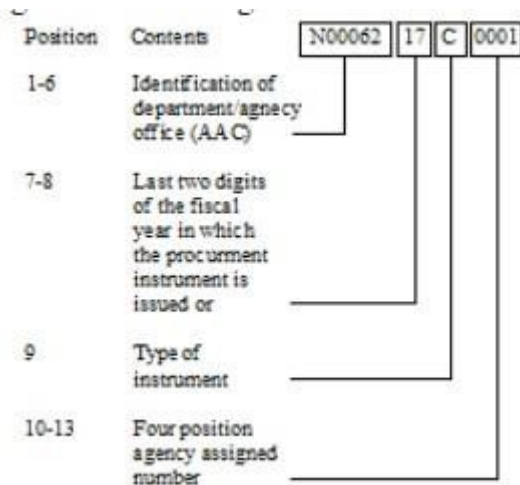

Requirement: All requests for personnel security investigations must include the prime contract number.

Instruction: See the guidance below for details. Please follow the correct standardized format for the prime contract number as shown below.

Prime Contract Number:

1) When entering the prime contract number, please include the full prime contract number.

In 2017, the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) standardized contract numbers government-wide by establishing the Procurement Instrument Identifier (PIID). Contracts configured in the PIID follow this format:

Older contracts may not follow the PIID contract format. Please refer to the DD Form 254, Box 2a "Prime Contract Number" to obtain the contract number for entry in DISS.

2) Subcontractors should refer to the DD Form 254, Box 2a. "Prime Contract Number" to obtain the prime contract number for entry in DISS.

- 3) If the individual works on multiple contracts, the DD254 block 2a states Multiple Contracts or Services, list the prime contract number primarily supported (majority of time billed).
- 4) Investigations for key management personnel of a cleared company should reflect the contractor's largest classified contract supported.
- 5) For a company in process for a facility clearance, the key management personnel clearance requests should reflect the contract number of the contract associated with the sponsorship of the company's facility clearance by the government customer or prime contractor.
- 6) If the contract number is classified, type "classified" in the field.

If you have any questions with this process, please email dss.ncr.dss.mbx.dvd-vroc@mail.mil for assistance.
